

How to Use the Auction Center

About the Auction Center

The Auction Center was created to allow everyone access to view past and future auctions and view auction results on a real-time basis. It may be used as a tool to shop for future auctions or review previous results from a past auction. During an auction the results from lot sales will be posted as part of the paperwork filing process live at the auction. Feedback is always appreciated to allow us to improve your experience.

The Toolbar

The toolbar is designed to location information quickly. The toolbar has four main functions:

- Auctions: Show all auctions and lookup old and new information for a specific auction
- Auction Lots: Skip the auction details and go directly to all lots from all auctions. You may filter the auction from a drill-down list.
- Auction Consigners: Shows all consigners from all auctions. From here you may review and sort all lots offered from all of the auctions from a single consigner.
- Auction Buyers: Like the Consigners area, you may filter all horses purchased from all auctions from a single buyer.

As seen from the picture, every section of the Auction center has basic controls:

- Print Page: This allows the visitor to print any page they are currently viewing.
- Global Search: Global Search allows the user to specify certain criteria for the display grids to filter and look for. Every screen has certain pieces of information it filters for. After typing in your request click the Go button to view the results.
- Filter Select: This type of search works separately from the Global Search. This area provides commonly specified lists that allow the visitor to drill-down and filter the displayed information. If there are more than one drill-down lists then the filtering cascades using all of the filter drill-down lists.
- Export: This feature takes your displayed data, filtered or otherwise, and exports all of the information to a csv file (Comma Separated Value) that may be opened in programs such as Microsoft Excel to allow the visitor to do their own custom data manipulation.
- Navigation Controls: Basic record navigation is provided to allow visitors to access all available data. Due to some Auctions having many lots we break down the data into pages for easier access to information.
 - First Page: Takes you to the beginning of all of the records displayed
 - Page Back: Go back one page in the list.
 - Page Forward: Go forward one page in the list.
 - Last Page: Go to the end of the displayed data.
 - Page size: how many items to view per page. Click the Go button next to the Page Size to re-filter your data to your desired page size.
 - Total Items: Informs the visitor how many records are currently in the set of data.
 - View: Next to each record there is a view button that allows the visitor to view the details of a particular piece of information.
 - Sort by Columns: Every column of information may be sorted ascending or descending.

The Auction Screen allows you to have a list of past and future auctions. Clicking the View button next to an auction record shows you the details of that auction including a listing of Lots.

This section is similar to the section in the Auctions except you have to specify which auction to sort. This works as a bypass so the visitor does not have to view the auction details every time you view pages of lots. The filtering works the same where you may drill-down to filter out the lots you do not wish to view.

Below is an example of filtering by auction and by lot criteria.

Below is an example of the table views of horses purchased.

The screenshot shows two interfaces. The top interface is titled 'AUCTION BUYER' and has a table with the following columns: 'Buyer Name', 'Buyer Location', 'City', and 'State'. The table contains one row with the text 'Test Buyer' under the 'Buyer Name' column. A callout bubble points to the 'Test Buyer' text with the text 'Example of the View Buyer, Which gives you everything they have bought.' The bottom interface is titled 'LOTS PURCHASED' and has a search bar with the text 'Search for' and a 'Go' button. Below the search bar, there are four dropdown menus: 'Auction', 'Breed', 'Gender', and 'Color', all set to 'All'. Below the dropdowns, there is a control bar with an 'Export' button, navigation arrows, 'Page 0 of 0', 'Page Size 10', and a 'Go' button.
